Authors	Paper title
Adam Smith and Minna Korhonen	Attitudes to immigration in Australian Hansard: 1970-2020
Akira Murakami, Ute Römer, Marije Michel and Dora Alexopoulou	Do formulaic sequences mask proficiency? Considering evidence from a large learner corpus
Axel Bohmann	The FUTURE of World Englishes: will versus BE going to in the International Corpus of English
Beatrix Busse, Ingo Kleiber, Sophie Du Bois and Nina Dumrukcic	Diachronic Analysis of Grammatical Forms and Functions in a Corpus of 16th-19th Century English Grammar Books
Christina Sanchez-Stockhammer	The impact of Star Wars on the English language: A study of Star Wars-derived words and constructions in present-day English corpora (poster)
Christina Sanchez-Stockhammer and Asya Yurchenko	Once upon a time, there was a fairy tale … And it lived happily ever after: A contrastive corpus-based study of German and English fairy tale openings and closings
Christine Elsweiler and Patricia Ronan	Determining Letter-Specific Speech Acts in 18th Century Varieties of English
Clark D. Cunningham and Ute Römer	Corpus linguistics meets the law: Can an American president only be impeached for criminal conduct?
Cristina Suarez-Gomez and Elena Seoane	Modeling 21st-century Bangladeshi English through corpus data
Daisuke Suzuki	Epistemic verb expressions in native and non-native writing: Task effects (work in progress)
Daniel Ihrmark	Connections between genres and error patterns in a Swedish upper-secondary EAL learner corpus
Daria Dayter	Linguistic factors in successful persuasion: ChangeMyView subreddit
Dario Del Fante	The crisis of normality. Conceptual metaphorical patterns in the discourse of crisis: new old mappings
Eleni Seitanidi, Nele Põldvere and Carita Paradis	All-cleft constructions in the London–Lund Corpus 2 (LLC–2) of spoken British English
Eliane Lorenz	"Like English is used everywhere" – The functions and use of discourse marker like in UAE English
Elnora ten Wolde and Gunther Kaltenböck	Purpose subordinators on the move: the so, so that, just so network
Eva Zehentner	Which factors are at play in English argument structure variation? NPs vs PPs throughout time
Florent Perek and Lotte Sommerer	Direct object definiteness and verb meaning: A corpus-based investigation
Gaëtanelle Gilquin	Phrasal verbs as multiword units: A comparison of EFL and ESL
Gail Flanagan	A corpus-based analysis of Irish English speakers' virtual intercultural communications in the technology sector
Gavin Brookes	Dementia metaphors in the British press: A corpus-based study
Gerold Schneider	Separating the Wheat from the Chaff: how to detect Idioms vs. compositional Collocations with Collocation Measures and Distributional Semantics
Guyanne Wilson	Agreement with Collective Nouns in African and Caribbean Englishes

Guyanne Wilson and Michael Westphal	Creole and power: A Critical Discourse Analysis of legal cross-examinations in ICE Trinidad and Tobago and ICE Jamaica
Hanna Schmueck	Network visualisations of linguistic relationships in large datasets: A case study exploring the context of normal in British English
Helena Hanneder	Writing Revisions of German Learners of English: A Longitudinal Corpus-Based Approach
Hoa Ninh	(Work-in-Progress) Concerns about cancer immunotherapy in online forum posts: A corpus-based discourse analysis
Irene Taipale	Individual Lingua Franca English Speakers' Sensitivity to Americanization in an Online Social Network. Work in progress.
Iria Bello Viruega and Estefanía Sánchez Barreiro	On the importance of the common ground in scientific discourse: extenders and focus operators in late Modern English
Isolde van Dorst	The adaptation of a corpus: Reformatting CANBEC for sociolinguistic analysis
Jarle Ebeling and Signe Oksefjell Ebeling	Reporting clauses in British general vs. crime fiction
Jason Grafmiller and Jack Grieve	Explaining regional patterns in morphosyntactic dialect features: The case of BE sat/stood in England and beyond
Javier Calle-Martín and Miriam Criado-Peña	The Oxford Comma in the History of English
Joe Trotta and Monika Mondor	Should've did a corpus study, could've wrote a paper
Julia Schilling	Trump's Populist Rhetoric: A Corpus-Based Analysis of 'The Charismatic Leader', 'The People', and 'The Elite'
Julia Schilling and Robert Fuchs	Pandem-onium: Identifying keywords and phrases in British COVID-19 Twitter and newspaper discourse
Karin Aijmer	A comparative study of -ish in English and Swedish blogs
Karin Puga	F0 range in L2 discourse: A corpus-based contrastive interlanguage analysis
Karola Schmidt	Fluency in Asian Englishes: A Multivariate Corpus-Based Analysis of Indian and Sri Lankan English
Kärt Roomäe	What's Normal in Conversations? Non-Canonical Interrogatives in LINDSEI-EST Corpus
Katherine Ireland Kuiper	Promotion and Preservation of Public Health: Trends in Health Science and Communication in the Royal Society Corpus
Kathrin Kircili, Julia Degenhardt, Tobias Bernaisch and Sandra Goetz	Grammatical Nativization in Spoken South Asian Englishes: The Case of the Existential-There Construction
Lauren Fonteyn and Enrique Manjavacas	Software demonstration: meaning-based querying of historical corpora with MacBERTh
Laurence Anthony	KWIC Patterns: A new normal for displaying, ordering, and interpreting concordance line results
Leida Maria Monaco, Luis Puente-Castelo, Isabel Moskowich and Begoña Crespo	The design of a Corpus of late Modern English Texts on Physics
Lieselotte Brems	Semi-stable systems in PDE: paradigmatic enrichment of constructional paradigms

Lisa Lehnen and Ninja Schulz	"I shall be glad if you will note…" – Studying early 20th century business correspondence from Hong Kong to assess variety-specific genre developments
Liu Luda	This essay argues that: Connecting metadiscursive nouns and rhetorical moves in research article abstracts
Ljubica Leone	Semantic reanalysis and idiomatization: multi-word verbs in the Late Modern English period
Lorenzo Mastropierro	The avoidance of repetition in translation: A multifactorial study of repeated reporting verbs in the Italian translation of the Harry Potter series
Lukas Soenning	Keyword analysis: Progress through regression
Lukas Soenning and Jason Grafmiller	Seeing the wood for the trees: Recursive partitioning with marginal effects plots
Marc Alexander, Fraser Dallachy and Ewan Hannaford	The Hansard Corpus: Semantics and scaffolding
Maria Leedham	'Guv, I'm a copper, not a social worker!': Using corpus-assisted discourse studies to analyse how caring professionals are portrayed on anglophone TV
Mario Serrano-Losada and Zeltia Blanco-Suárez	Stating the obvious: assumed evidential parentheticals with verba dicendi in contemporary Englishes
Marta Pacheco-Franco	Spelling Variation in Inner-Circle Englishes
Matt Gee, Andrew Kehoe and Antoinette Renouf	Establishing a 'new normal': detecting fluctuating trends in word frequency over time
Matteo Fuoli and Monika Bednarek	Triangulating methods in corpus linguistics: from frequency to move and dialogic analysis
Mei Yang	Use of evaluative that in research articles: Variations across paradigms
Mel Evans and Helen Newsome	Capturing and Analysing Multimodality in a Corpus of Royal Correspondence: A Case Study of the Letters of James V and Henry VIII
Michael Westphal	Pragmatic Variation in World Englishes: A corpus-pragmatic analysis of question tag use in Nigerian, Philippine, and Trinidadian English
Michelle Weckermann	"Sitting on a chair writing a paper on prepositions": a cognitive semantic study of the polysemy of the preposition on
Monika Mondor and Joe Trotta	Is death the great equalizer? A study of news accounts of women and men as murder victims
Muhammad Shakir and Dagmar Deuber	Compiling a corpus of South Asian online Englishes: Some reflections and a pilot study
Niall Curry	Combining corpus and qualitative methods to improve the representation of spoken language in ELT materials.
Niklas Nitsch and Patricia Ronan	Investigating Sentiments on Covid-19 in Tweets
Nina Funke	The Dative Alternation in Pre- and Post-Handover Hong Kong: Towards Endonormative Stabilization or Restriction?
Ninja Schulz and Lisa Lehnen	Compiling a diachronic corpus to trace variety-specific genre conventions across time: challenges and solutions for automatising text recognition of business correspondence from Hong Kong

Ozan Mustafa	Not that you asked, but here it is: a formal and functional taxonomy of not-that clauses in Present-day American English (work-in-progress)
Paula Rautionaho	Grinding to a halt? The spread of the progressive in recent spoken British English
Paula Rodríguez-Puente	Another turn of the screw on the development of -ity and -ness across registers: Early and Late Modern English periods in focus
Peter Crosthwaite, Sulistya Ningrum and Martin Schweinberger	Research Trends in Corpus Linguistics: A Bibliometric Analysis of Two Decades of Scopus-indexed Corpus Linguistics Research in Arts and Humanities
Peter Uhrig	Big Thyme for Big Data Methods - Approaching the Question of Homophone Durations with a Large Automatically Annotated Dataset
Raffaella Bottini and Vaclav Brezina	Lexical sophistication in spoken English: Lex Complexity Tool and the Spoken BNC2014 wordlist
Robbie Love and Anna-Brita Stenström	Challenges in deriving a new COLT from the Spoken BNC2014: the case of teenage swearing
Robert Fuchs and Valentin Werner	A quasi-longitudinal analysis of the L2 acquisition of tense and aspect
Sarah Buschfeld, Sven Leuckert, Andreas Weilinghoff and Claus Weihs	How 'real' is the quantitative turn? Investigating statistics as the 'new normal' in Corpus Linguistics
Sean Wallis	Accurate confidence intervals on Binomial proportions, functions of proportions and related scores
Sebastian Hoffmann, Sabine Arndt-Lappe and Peter Uhrig	Rhythm in World Englishes – Evidence from a Quantitative Analysis of Co-occurrence Patterns in Corpora of L1 and L2 Varieties of English
Stefan Gries and Magali Paquot	Many association measures do not measure association (but frequency), and what to do about that
Stefan Hartmann and Tobias Ungerer	Are snowclones the new normal? Using corpora to study extravagant formulaic patterns
Stefan Th. Gries	Most dispersion measures do not measure dispersion
Svetlana Vetchinnikova	Chunking at the individual level
Sylvi Rørvik	Word order in additional-language English spoken by multilinguals
Tamara Bouso	While the Beacon-fire blazed its brightest, the two women shrieked their loudest: On the Superlative Object Construction (SOC)
Temitayo Olatoye	A closer look at GET in African postcolonial Englishes
Thomas Brunner	...because the Law commands it. A sociolinguistic study of causal conjunctions in the Old Bailey Corpus
Tim Samples, Caroline Kraczon and Katherine Ireland Kuiper	Read this Policy: A Corpus-Based Analysis of Terms of Use Contracts
Tove Larsson, Douglas Biber and Gregory R. Hancock	A complex puzzle: Comparing theory-based models of grammatical complexity in spoken versus written registers

Tove Larsson, Marcus Callies, Tülay Dixon, Hilde Hasselgard, Nicole Hober, Natalia Judith Laso, Sanne van Vuuren, Isabel Verdaguer and Magali Paquot	Adverb placement in L2 spoken production: The effect of linguistic and extralinguistic factors
Turo Hiltunen, Laura Hekanaho, Minna Palander-Collin and Helmiina Hotti	Exploring emerging patterns of self-identification in the LGBTQ+ Reddit Corpus
Turo Vartiainen and Tanja Säily	Analysing category change with enriched data: A grammatical and sociolinguistic study of -ed participles, 1810-2009
Ulrike Schneider	A negator walks into a modal clause. A diachronic corpus-based study of a complex relationship
Vaclav Brezina and Raffaella Bottini	Visualizing English language: synchronic and diachronic trends
Viola Wiegand	Discourses of 21st century identity documents in the UK: A contribution to diachronic corpus studies
Yuki Komiya and Martin Schweinberger	A corpus-based acoustic analysis of vowel production by L1-Japanese learners and native speakers of English
Zlata Liwschin	Grammaticalization of Aspect in German and its diachronic parallels in English